U.N. Set to Act On Intervention By Red Chinese

U.S. Calls Security Council To Face Gravest Crisis Yet

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Nov. 6 (AP).—Gen. MacArthur notified the United Nations today that Chinese Communist troops are fighting United Nations forces in Korea. The United States promptly called for a special Security Council meeting Wednesday morning to consider this turn of events.

The charge of Red Chinese intervention presented the United Nations with the gravest crisis in its five-year history. American delegate Ernest A. Gross told a press conference: "The situation obviously is serious and will require consultations with other members."

At a tense council meeting this afternoon chief United States delegate Warren R. Austin presented MacArthur's statement that "the United Nations forces are meeting a new foe" in Korea.

Soviet delegate S. K. Tsarapkin took notes as Austin read the account of specific Chinese formations that had been identified by MacArthur's intelligence officers. Much of the report was based on interrogation of Chinese Red prisoners. It said 2,500 Chinese Communist soldiers have moved into Korea as early as October 16.

The United States sought no discussion of the case today. Gross said the United States delegation now is holding private talks with the diplomats of other countries. Asked whether Russia will be included in the preparatory talks, Gross said: "We won't rule that out."

Diplomatic sources said the 11-country council probably will be asked to issue an order repeating earlier United Nations calls to all countries to withhold aid from the North Korean Reds. This request could be worded so as not to name the Chinese Communists specifically. After issuance of such an order, the informants said, there probably will be some sort of waiting period to see if the Chinese Communists pull out of Korea.

Some observers thought the council may call for further investigation at the scene, even though MacArthur's report was in such detail as to eliminate all chance of mistaken identity.

There was corridor speculation that Russia may come forward with a cease-fire proposal coupled with an appeal to the Chinese Reds and the United Nations troops to pull back and try to negotiate a settlement.

Machinists Face Loss Of Charter

The Machinists, Fitters and Helpers' Union, C.C.L., which has signed a new working agreement with the management of Victoria's two major shipyards is in danger of losing its charter, it was learned last night.

William White, executive member of the Shipyard General Workers' Federation in Vancouver, told more than 200 shipyard workers at a meeting Sunday that he would recommend the local's charter be lifted at a convention to be held later this month.

He told the floor that the machinists were responsible to General Shipyard Workers' Federation and not directly to the C.C.L. He said the Victoria machinists had jeopardized the position of their fellow workers who were on strike in Vancouver. They are affiliated with the same union.

St. Laurent Sees War Preparedness As Main Canadian Problem for Years

OTTAWA, Nov. 6 (AP).—Prime Minister St. Laurent said tonight military preparedness is likely to be one of Canada's main problems "for a good many years to come."

At the same time, steps taken by the United Nations to meet the Communists in Korea "strengthened the chances of preventing aggression elsewhere, provided we do not relax our efforts."

In an address prepared for delivery before the annual conference of the Canadian Exporters Association, Mr. St. Laurent said the only hope of security for the world "in the near future" is in building up armed strength sufficient to deter aggression.

ONLY HOPE
"That, in fact, seems to be the only hope of preventing war from breaking out."

"Of course, we do not want to go on forever facing potential aggressors across an armed frontier. While building up our strength, we must also continue to look for every opportunity of a real settlement of differences and we must never lose hope of finally establishing a peaceful world community based on universal good will."

But the first duty, he added, is the provision of sufficient military strength, including the industrial strength on which real military strength today is based, to make the risk of starting another war against any of us a risk not worth taking."

Mr. St. Laurent said it will be difficult, when Canada has to concentrate so much on war-like preparations, to avoid developing "war-like outlook." Yet that would be fatal to the whole policy of preventing war and maintaining peace.

To achieve that policy, Canada could not be content merely with military preparedness. The Communists gained control by infiltrating into key positions within a country, by gaining power over unions and other subversive methods.

There was not the "slightest" likelihood of that kind of technique working in Canada or elsewhere in North America.

However, there could not be a

Anscomb Foresees Split-Up of Coalition

Possibility that the Progressive Conservative Party may enter the next British Columbia election without any alliance with the Liberal Party was suggested last night by Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb.

In an address prepared for delivery over a radio network, he said also that legislation may be introduced at next session dealing with the single transferable vote.

"We may be going into the next election as a straight Conservative Party without any alliance with the Liberal Party," he said. "I do not say we are going to do that because I do not know what conditions will be in the future."

NEW CONDITION
If the nation is at war at the end of the life of this Legislature, then a new condition would arise, "but I am saying that we must be prepared for any eventuality."

The Conservative Party had endorsed at the 1946 convention the single transferable vote system and reaffirmed this stand at the last convention. There were indications that the Liberal Party also favored the idea.

"Therefore, it is possible that it will be brought into effect."

In the last eight years British Columbia's population increased 40 per cent—greater of any province in Canada. He said these people were the future members of the party who must be convinced that free enterprise is the best system.

AGREEMENT
Recall of discussion between the Dominion and Provinces will be held shortly concerning the financial structure. A renewal of the agreement which expires in 1952 will have to be made of "we will first-of-ourselves going it alone."

"Changes in our economic outlook and the heavy population increase have outdated the existing agreement."

Foreign undersecretary Ernest Davies, replying to questions in the House of Commons, expressed Britain's concern over the reports of Red troops in North Korea and of their invasion of Tibet.

"Quite clearly," said Davies, "if the Chinese take an action like this it will influence our attitude towards them."

Police Seek Raise

Union Wants $30 Increase

Pay increases of $30 a month across the board are being sought for city police by the Police Federal Union, Local 251.

The Police Commission was requested yesterday by Constable J. W. Barlow, union president, to re-open the 1950 working agreement for purposes of amendment.

Initial meeting between the Commission and union representatives will be held next Friday afternoon.

STRIPE MONEY
The union also is asking "stripe money" and $20 annual boot money for detectives. They ask that the working agreement be amended so that each member of the force would receive a stripe or star and ten cents per day for each five years of service from enlistment.

If the requested pay increase is granted in full it would mean that the monthly pay of detective sergeants would be boosted from $256.62 to $286.62; detectives and sergeants, $245.70 to $275.70; first class constables, $229.32 to $259.32; second class constables, $201.21 to $231.21; third class constables, $191.00 to $221.00; probationers, $174.72 to $204.72.

The union is asking that policewomen be paid as second class constables.

AWARDED RAISE
Following lengthy negotiations, city police, early this year, were awarded across the board wage increase of five per cent. They were also granted a 40-hour work week under the agreement to be made effective through 1950.

Union, Firms
Nearer Pact

VANCOUVER, Nov. 6 (AP).—Some 400 workers and two companies involved in a month-long shipyard strike here were seven-cents-per-hour apart tonight.

Management of Burrard and Pacific Drydock companies met with union spokesmen for an hour at the offices of the Labor Relations Board, when both sides relented two-cents-an-hour.

William J. Wardle, representing the companies, proposed, an 11-cents-an-hour advance on a "package" deal, against a previous best company offer of nine cents.

H. N. Watts, spokesman for the unions concerned, told the meeting the workers would accept 18-cents-an-hour advance on a "package" deal instead of the original 20-cent demand.

Most of the houses built by the Government since the World War have been low-rental units. Churchill said the Conservatives would give priority to houses of a similar type, but refused to say the proposition.

"You give me the power and I'll give you the figures," he said, "and I'll cheer from his supporters and boos from the Labor members."

A defeat in tonight's vote probably would have forced the Government to resign or call a general election. Sick Labor members, muffled against a chill mist, rallied to the call to vote. Labor's majority is six.

Stalin Said Absent For Big Occasion

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (INS).—An International News Service dispatch from Moscow indicated tonight that Premier Stalin was not present for the most important part of the Bolshevik anniversary observance in Moscow's Bolshoi Theatre.

The dispatch included a list of some of the top Soviet Government officials present on the eve of the 33rd Anniversary of the Red Revolution—but made no mention of Stalin.

Last March 10 the Soviet press carried a statement to the effect that Stalin's health did not permit him to travel to Washington for a conference with President Truman. But he appeared in good health when he voted two days later.

On May 17, after visiting Stalin, U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie reported Stalin as well and dismissed rumors of the Soviet leader's poor health as "wishful thinking."

Laborites Survive Challenge

LONDON, Nov. 6 (AP).—The Labor Government tonight weathered another challenge, defeating by 12 votes an Opposition motion censuring the housing program.

The resolution which called the program "Too little and too slow," was defeated 30 to 28.

It was the first vote in the Commons since the general election last February, which left Prime Minister Attlee's Labor Party with a narrow majority.

Another vote
The Government faces another challenge tomorrow on Opposition motions attacking a Government proposal to make economic controls permanent and deploring rising living costs.

The debate on this issue was led by Health Minister Aneurin Bevan and Winston Churchill, Conservative leader. Bevan's duties include directing the housing program, which has been building 200,000 units yearly.

Churchill reviewed the housing plank the Conservative Party adopted at its convention last month, calling for 300,000 new houses a year, and said:

"Let us have less chatter and planning. Let us get on with the imperative job of housing millions who ask so little and get so little for all their efforts."

Bevan declared that if the Opposition had its way and building controls were dropped, only the "people with long purses would find houses."

Big Aerial Fight Rages Fiercely In Korea Skies

Prolonged Battle Continues As U.S. Rushes Jet Support

U.S. FIFTH AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Nov. 7 (Tuesday) (AP).—Headquarters announced today United States and enemy planes were engaged in a prolonged air battle over Sinuiju. The fight started at 2:25 p.m. (9:25 p.m., P.S.T.) and was continuing at 4 p.m. (11 p.m., P.S.T.)

The air battle, longest of the Korean War, was announced in a special communique.

The communique said: "The first prolonged air battle of the Korean War was joined in the Sinuiju area at 2:25 p.m. between Fifth Air Force Mustangs and Communist Mig-15s. The Mustangs were shot down and still continuing at 4 p.m. With F-80s shooting at jets on their way to join the melee, Maj. Gen. Earl E. Partridge, Fifth Air Force commander announced in a special communique at 4 p.m. today:

"Four fighters of the Eighth Fighter Bomber Group were attacked by four Mig-15s five miles south of Anupong on the North Korean side of the Yalu River at 2:25 p.m. and in the ensuing five minutes of aerial battle the American pilots claimed definite hits on three of the enemy jets which fled across the international boundary."

"As the original four F-51s left the area their relief also was engaged in combat by enemy jets. Pilots of the original flight said they could hear the second flight of the Eighth Fighter Bomber Group F-51s over the radio as they engaged the enemy."

"Upon receipt of the report of air action, the Fifth Air Force operations ordered two flights of F-80s to join the fray. It was not known at 4 p.m. whether the F-80s had made contact with the enemy."

The group also intends to hold hearings to determine what local and state campaigns, if any, gamblers may have helped to finance.

A committee spokesman said the group does not expect to find gangster names listed as congressional campaign donors—because such donations probably would be made under different names and because the racketeering syndicates are more interested in local offices.

First Canadian Troops
Arrive at Korean Port

TOKIO, Nov. 7 (Tuesday) (Reuters).—The first contingent of Canadian troops to join United Nations forces in Korea arrived at the South Korean supply port of Pusan at 9 a.m. local time today in the American transport James O'Hara.

The contingent—about 300 strong—is an advance party of Canada's special brigade made up of specialists, such as cooks, clerks, drivers and tradesmen.

They arrived at Yokohama last week and sailed for Pusan last Saturday.

At Pusan they will wait until they are notified reinforcements are on the way. Then they will stake out a training area outside Pusan, probably early next month.

Mostly Veterans
Ninety-five per cent of the Canadian advance force is made up of World War veterans who received advanced individual training since joining the special force.

The advance party is expected to be followed by an infantry battalion and supporting troops late this month.

The troops are part of Canada's 11,000-man special force which was raised to be used at the disposal of the United Nations in Korea or elsewhere.

Language

There is nothing like the charm of the father sex to smooth ruffled male feathers.

This belief was indicated yesterday by the Police Commission, when it decided to hire a female clerk to take over the job of receiving fines in the office of the traffic department.

The vacancy in the traffic office was created through the resignation of one of the police officers.

Police Chief John Blackstock urged that a woman be named to fill the vacancy. He said that such an appointment might overcome use of offensive language by some citizens forced to come in and pay traffic fines.

Tommies, Diggers Blast Communists During Successful Rearguard Action

WITH THE BRITISH COMMONWEALTH BRIGADE ON THE CHONGCHON RIVER, Nov. 7 (Tuesday) (INS).—British and Australian troops of the 27th Commonwealth Brigade were dug in Monday night, guarding the approaches to the Chongchong River bridge leading to Sinuiju.

They enjoyed a respite after fighting off almost 20 hours of repeated attacks by an estimated 10,000 Communists from Sunday to early Monday.

It was one of the bitterest battles the Tommies and Diggers have fought in Korea as they beat off Red assaults aimed at Sinuiju, key

United Nations supply base and Western anchor of the Chongchong line.

The British and Australians were committed to rear guard action to cover regrouping of United States 24th Division units which previously had been heavily penetrated by the Communists.

The Chinese and North Korean enemy attacked the Commonwealth Brigade with heavy mortar and machine gun fire in opening the assault. A crack Argyle Battalion, with fixed weapons, charged up a wooded hill to drive out the Reds threatening to overrun them.

The Reds fell back but soon laid down a new mortar barrage, followed by renewed assault. Snipe calls and the eerie blowing of high-pitched policemen's whistles, preceded the charge.

Australians, firing Bren guns from their hips, swept over boulder strewn hills to push the Reds back.

OVER ON ENEMY
American jet and Mustang fighter planes swooped low over the front, showering bombs from tree-top level, and raking the Reds with blazing machine guns.

The Communists were so thick that one Commonwealth Brigade staff officer remarked later: "Even with all those fighters there were not enough planes for the targets."

Poliburo Member Speaks on Anniversary

Chinese Reds Get Soviet Blessing For Military Action in Korean War

MOSCOW, Nov. 6 (AP).—Deputy Premier Nikolai Bulganin tonight praised the Chinese Communists as a "mighty people fighting actively for peace" but implied that despite present military reverses the North Koreans would finally emerge victorious.

Bulganin asserted it is time for American ruling circles to understand the Russian people are "not weak-nerved and the Soviet people are not so easily frightened. The Soviet people are able to defend themselves and defend their motherland—with arms in hand if necessary."

ASSAILS U.N. NATIONS

In a 12,000-worded speech at Bolshoi Theatre on the 33rd anniversary of the Soviet revolution, Bulganin, a member of the Politburo, said the United States had "flung into Korea their entire Far Eastern armed forces and some of other United Nations' countries. As a result of this the Korean people suffered a measure of defeat at the hands of the interventionists."

But the former defence minister added that the United States had not smothered the will of the North Koreans who heroically "fight on strongly for independence." Of the future, he said:

"Reverses occur in every war. At one time our Soviet State, too, during the foreign military intervention and the civil war, experienced enormous difficulties. However, the interventionists were defeated and driven out."

Bulganin declared that "recently the imperialists of the United States of America have moved from a policy of preparing for aggression to direct acts of aggression. The most naked manifestation of this policy is the armed intervention of the U.S.A. in Korea."

Bulganin asserted that the Soviet Government, "true to its unchanging policy of peace," from the outset of the conflict in Korea has insisted on its settlement by peaceful means.

He said the United Nations "can still be a force for peace" although "imperialist aggressors" have so far balked Russian overtures for peace in that organization.

Bulganin announced the Soviet Union's current five-year plan greatly exceeded its major goals. The current plan—the fourth—will end December 31 of this year.

He said the Soviet Union reaped a bumper harvest this year with the grain crop during 1950 amounting to 7,600,000,000 pounds (136,800,000 tons).

Projected into this picture, or as a result of it, we find constructive steps in the trade have been taken by many nations, including those of our own Government."

F. J. Stratton, member of the United Kingdom Dollar Export Board, offered hope that United Kingdom restrictions on Canadian sales to that country and, inferentially, to the sterling area, may be lessened in the light of the sterling area's increased supply of dollars.

Emphasizing that Britain will continue her drive to sell in dollar areas, Mr. Stratton added:

"Our main aim is to try to earn dollars from you so that we can restore a high level of imports from Canada to the United Kingdom."

"It trying to earn dollars, we are not taking dollars away from anyone else, because we are counting on the huge expansion of the Canadian economy which is one of the major economic phenomena of our times."

Of the flow of Canadian goods to Britain he said:

"Arrangements have been made for the purchase of 100,000 tons of new-print and 850,000 tons of iron ore between now and 1951, thus reversing the 1949 suspension of facilities of importing these products. British Columbia apples, canned salmon, softwood and wood pulp are also among the products which will be taken in increased quantities."

Joint Force Without Germans "Intolerable," States Shinwell

MONTREAL, Nov. 6 (AP).—A joint defence force for Western Europe that did not include German manpower would be intolerable and unthinkable to Britain and perilous to the West, Rt. Hon. Emanuel Shinwell, United Kingdom Defence Minister, declared today.

A Montreal Canadian Club audience applauded the statement. Mr. Shinwell said emphatically that only the use of German troops could ensure an adequate Western defence buildup "in the time available."

He said flatly, too, that he is "dissatisfied" with progress made at the recent Washington Atlantic Pact talks which failed to hurdle the obstacle of French opposition to a majority plan for German rearmament.

His speech came a few hours before he left Canada after a four-day visit and on the eve of a visit by Defence Minister Jules Moch, France's voice in the Washington talks.

Mr. Shinwell touched on other subjects. He said the moral aspect of Canada's contribution to Western security is of "vast importance" to the British people. It was a source of "immense gratification" to have Canada at Britain's side.

Without elaborating, he said it is important to "have friends who can make up their minds and not sit on the fence" as international "mugwumps."

The hopes of the free world had improved "remarkably" in the past few years but it might be long before that world was fully brought together. Chinese intervention in Korea was disquieting but it couldn't affect the ultimate result there.

Mr. Shinwell said Britain's expanded defence program is bound to hit her economy but exports to Canada were being given the same high priority as defence output.

Guide Dies In Hunt For Plane

CHAMONIX, France, Nov. 6 (AP).—A veteran French Alpine guide was killed today while leading a French Army rescue party up to the wreckage of a four-engined Constellation aircraft which carried 48 persons.

A radio report from the 50-man patrol of expert mountain climbers said 40-year-old Rene Payot was swept into a crevasse by an avalanche and buried under 20 feet of snow. The troops roped together behind him dug Payot out, but were unable to revive him.

SUSPEND OPERATIONS

Army authorities suspended operations until further notice. Earlier today they announced their search mission was almost hopeless.

Maj. Pierre Flatau, chief of the French Army Alpine School, said no one could have survived four nights of temperatures touching 48 degrees below zero, even if they had survived the crash last Friday.

He said his men's almost-hopeless mission now was to bring back the bodies of the 40 East Indian seamen and the plane's crew of eight. They are en route from Bombay to Britain on Mont Blanc, 18,781-foot giant of the Alps.

Moves to Halt Deaths in Jail

VANCOUVER, Nov. 6 (AP).—The Vancouver police commission is expected to insist that all unconscious city jail prisoners be sent to hospital, it was reported today.

Aim of the move would be to halt the increasing total of jail deaths in hospitals after arrests here.

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer sat with the commission in a closed meeting today when the matter was fully discussed.

Mr. Wismer entered the matter after a coroner's jury here appealed for his aid.

Campaign Climax Nears; U.S. Voters Keep Calm

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (AP).—The United States' battle for the ballots approached its climax tonight.

By radio and television, last-minute appeals for votes went out to an electorate not unduly interested, apparently, in the campaign for election of the 82nd Congress. Only in New York state, cross-country reports indicated, has the fight approached fever heat.

Even in New York, where Governor Thomas E. Dewey sat down before a television camera at dawn and planned to stay there until midnight in an unprecedented bid for re-election, the political parties found it difficult to whip up interest. The reason: lack of deep, real issues between the Republicans and the Democrats, the country's two main parties.

NEW HOUSE

The United States today elects a new House of Representatives of 435 members. One-third of the 96-seat Senate is up for re-election. Four vacant seats also have to be filled. Thirty-two of the 48 states will elect governors and many cities and towns choose mayors and councils.

Public opinion polls give the Republicans little chance of upsetting the Democrats' control of Congress, though they see a reduction in the latter party's majority, now 12 seats in the Senate and 90 in the House. The Republicans must gain seven seats to capture the Senate, 49 to control the House.

The polls proved fallible in 1948 when they predicted a top-heavy defeat of President Truman by Dewey then, as in 1944, the Republican Party's presidential candidate, Dewey is seeking a third successive term as Governor of New York. The Presidency is not at stake.

The Republicans' main campaign theme has been that the Democrats are leading the country into another world war and that they have permitted Communism to spread across much of the world. The Democrats counter that they are maintaining the peace and have done all that a peace-loving administration can do to halt the Red ideology.

On this note, Truman today got in a last election lick when he assured the nation that the free countries inevitably will prevail against Communism's "continuing menace to world peace." The President spoke from Independence, Mo., his home town, where tomorrow he will vote.

The Democrats are openly worried about the political effect of Chinese Red intervention in the Korean war. They fear that the unexpected turn may favor their opponents.

Community Chest Executive Reports Objective Reached

Victoria's Community Chest objective has been reached. The Chest executive announced Monday that $154,049 in cash, and signed pledges to the amount of $15,572, have been received.

"In addition to these contributions there have been received responsible assurances that the full balance required will be met," the executive stated.

"The Community Chest works the year round, and while there is an annual campaign for the raising of funds, persons so disposed can make contributions at any time, either by way of gift or bequest," the statement pointed out.

The campaign's success was due largely to collection and accounting assistance by the city's banks, co-operation of both newspapers and radio stations, and to individual canvassers, it was asserted.

PLAYGROUND PLANNED

A section of Hampton Park is being taken over and developed as a play park for small children. A recent meeting on the project elected W. Beddington, chairman, and L. Hunt, vice-chairman.

SEEK PROPERTY

The North West Telephone Co., Vancouver, yesterday applied to the city for a $6,000-square-foot parcel of land in the Mount Douglas area.

The company stated it planned to build a one-story building on the property to house radio-telephone equipment.

The company said also that it was prepared to purchase the pole line leading to the property in question for the sum of $1,200.

SHELTER CAMPS

The city was asked yesterday what action it intended to take with families still living in the Gordon Head and Macaulay emergency shelter camps.

"You may be aware that vacant huts at Gordon Head have been allocated to the Department of National Defence," J. A. Jones, regional supervisor of Central Mortgage & Housing Corporation, stated in a letter to city officials.

He said he had been notified by the executive secretary of the Citizens' Rehabilitation Council of Victoria, which has administered the camps, that on November 1 there were eight families still living at Gordon Head and seven at Macaulay.

McTavish to Quit Post At End of Council Term

Alderman Duncan McTavish announced yesterday that he would not seek re-election to City Council on December 14 when his term expires.

He was first elected to council in 1938.

Resignation of Alderman Charles Banfield is expected at today's meeting of council.

His retirement, because of ill health, will necessitate a by-election, since he is now completing the first year of the two-year term to which he was elected last year. Term of a candidate elected to fill his place would expire in December, 1951.

Shock Blamed For Fatality On West Coast

PORT ALBERNI, Nov. 6.—A coroner's jury, empaneled under Dr. N. H. Jones, coroner, tonight found that Skipper Harry Martin, otherwise known as Harry Martin, came to his death as the result of shock, when thrown into the water off Carmanah Point on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, on November 2, when the seiner Delmar foundered.

Evidence was given by Walter Rayner, John Korens and Stanley Forester, three crew members.

Dr. E. B. Helem, who conducted the autopsy, said Martin had bruises on his legs and nose. The lungs were not filled with water, and his heart appeared normal. He had no definite conclusion as to the cause of death, but thought he probably died of shock.

Members of the jury were W. E. Brooks, A. G. Beurling, Karl Sundstrom, Capt. R. Porritt, C. Wimpenny and Richard Cook.

Set Representatives

CAMPBELL RIVER, Nov. 6.—Mrs. J. Richards and Samuel Boond were elected Quadra Island Superior School representatives at the annual meeting at Quatsiki Cove. A. G. Lipp, school district secretary, promised to investigate a complaint about condition of the school grounds.

Tells of Plans For Improving Southern Road

Plans for improvement to the southern Trans-Provincial Highway were outlined yesterday by Works Minister E. G. Carson.

Mr. Carson's statement followed a meeting with a delegation from the Trans-Canada Highway Association which is boosting the Crossed Pass route for the national highway.

The delegation included Ernest R. McFarland, Lethbridge, and J. V. Rogers, Trail.

Mr. Carson said his department proposed to double highway service from Balfour to Kootenay Landing on Kootenay Lake, and to order a new ferry for delivery in 1952.

He said plans also called for black-topping the Cascade Road between Rossland and Grand Forks, pending leasing of a less mountainous section of 22 miles in the United States.

Ashes of the mascot of the Canadian Scottish Regiment, Private Wallace, who died last Wednesday, will be placed in a silver urn and kept in the Officers' Mess in the Bay Street Armoury.

Lt.-Col. W. J. Mosedale, commanding officer of the Scottish, said the ashes would be placed in the mess only "as a temporary measure."

"They will remain there until arrangements have been made for final placement in the Bay Street Armoury," he declared.

The silver urn is now being made by a local silversmith and will be inscribed before being piped into the mess later this week by one of the Scottish pipers.

It Looks Like a Fighting Winter

THE advance of Chinese Communists into Tibet, obvious reinforcement in strength of North Korean troops at the Manchurian border and resurgence of stiff fighting in Indo-China, to cite only a few of the trouble spots, make it look like a fighting winter for the world. The Chinese Communist reaction to the Korean conflict has not been to turn the other cheek. On the contrary, nothing seems clearer than that the world has two major powers who simply do not interpret their obligation to humanity in the same light as the rest of the world.

The situation internationally is not unlike the days when the Nazis and the Japanese began to get steam up on their Axis. Moscow and Peking can be substituted for Berlin and Tokio, and the various "aims" of the sword-rattlers may read differently, but to all intents and purposes this is producing a world that must re-arm, and stay that way, if freedom is to be secured.

That, in a globe already racked by inflation and the drain of the last war, is serious enough in all conscience. When it is contrasted with the genuine advance along the road towards peace that might have been made in these years except for this aggression and bad faith, the loss is immeasurable.

Russia has played a queer game in and out of the United Nations. Nothing in the United Nations Charter gives warrant for the bolting of smaller nations by armed aggression. On the contrary, the Charter was supposed to assure to all nations, large and small, the determination of their own affairs. Twisting the evidence to call defenders aggressors does not change the picture, because it remains perfectly clear whose borders were crossed first and by whom. In it all neither Russia nor Communist China have lived up to their obligations, and opportunities, as world powers. But, not guns, is the world's real need.

Canadian Military Strategy Reaches New Low

WITH the official announcement that the 2nd Battalion, P.P.C.L.I., will move to Korea this month the status of Canada's Special Brigade as a fighting unit becomes more muddled than ever. A brigade is small enough in all conscience, but who ever heard of one lone battalion crossing an ocean to go to war all by itself!

On arrival in Korea this orphaned battalion will need foster parents, for in the tactical employment of field forces a battalion is too small to look after itself and too small to be fought as an independent unit. What then will become of the Princess Pats? Will they be absorbed by the United States Army, with which they have been doing some training on this side of the Pacific; or will they be attached to formations from other Commonwealth nations, whose equipment and tables of organization are the same, or nearly the same, as their own?

If the Pats go to another Commonwealth force it is going to be a poor mark for Canada that a single battalion is the most this Dominion can send to Korea in fulfillment of its promise to the United Nations. If they are to be attached to a formation of the United States Army it seems inevitable that they will have to be re-equipped, retrained and maybe even reorganized to conform to the American pattern. Either way, the Canadian identity of the battalion appears bound to be submerged.

One is left wondering whether Defence Minister Claxton (who seems to create nothing but confusion when he makes a move) reaches these decisions on the recommendation of military advisers or bull-headedly on his own account. It is difficult to believe that any experienced soldier would recommend the dispatch overseas of one battalion as a fighting unit. A humiliating inference that can be drawn is that the Pats are not intended to fight at all, but are to be used as occupation troops, in which role a single, detached battalion might conceivably be able to function effectively.

Council-Manager System Can Give Relief

IT is a pity that the City Council did not act last Autumn when the city manager reference was being prepared for the people, to provide for the smaller council which the operation of the new system entails. As matters stand it will require another year before Victoria can take advantage of the plan in one of its most important phases, the size and importance of the aldermanic board. Nevertheless, as the council-manager method is coming into operation, this year should not be lost in preparation for that. Special efforts should be made to attract the best calibre of civic representation that is obtainable at the forthcoming civic elections.

It stands to reason that while Victoria will not need a mayor and ten aldermen under the new plan, that a smaller council—seven should be sufficient—will be solely responsible for the main issues of policy, which the city manager must then carry out. That implies the need for men and women who will be genuine leaders in civic affairs, with a ripe knowledge of the community and progressiveness to deal positively with the many issues of the day. There are no easy times ahead for this community. Only a council with resolution, firmness and faith in Victoria will be able to weather the day-by-day strains that such service involves.

It should be a community aim this time to induce the very best type of representation that can be found to sit on the aldermanic board. Victoria has a destiny. With careful management, there is no reason why it cannot absorb the physical problems of rapid growth and go on to as bright and prosperous a future as any community of like size and importance in Canada. Meanwhile there is a lot to be done, and in the doing determination and courage will be needed.

"RIGHT OF THE LINE"

Sir,—Would you, if possible, please inform me, what regiment of the British Army is familiarly known as "The Head of the Column, the Right of the Line and the Pride of the British Army?"

"VANCOUVER" ISLAND

Sir,—Your columnist, G. E. Mortimore, suggests that the name of Vancouver Island be changed and that visitors to our island city think so, too. This matter has been discussed before and I have not heard of one person who does not think as Mr. Mortimore suggests.

Victoria has 115,000 citizens and more still on the island, and as it has always been, we are a suburb of Vancouver in the eyes of the world. It is all very confusing and I would like to see a real effort made to change the name of our island. A lot of Vancouver Island mail must land up in Vancouver Post Office.

HOSPITAL LOTTERIES

Sir,—To ease the burden of British Columbia Hospital Insurance premiums, well-regulated lotteries should be held at frequent intervals, and administered by the Government-controlled insurance service, whose full cost of operation could be a first charge on the lottery receipts. Some 50 per cent of the net balance would be taken to reduce—or, at least, stabilize hospital insurance premiums at their present level, and only amount remaining used to improve hospital facilities.

The other 50 per cent of the net proceeds should be fairly distributed as cash prizes. There is the fine example of the Irish Hospitals Sweepstakes, which has been honestly conducted for almost fifteen years, and has given the people of Southern Ireland the finest hospital service in the world, although only 25 per cent of the sweepstakes receipts are donated to the hospitals.

I firmly believe that unless other forms of revenue are found, British Columbia Hospital Insurance Service premiums will double themselves within ten years.

Let the public have the free opportunity of deciding whether they wish to pay much higher premiums, or prefer to take a sporting chance on a sound lottery ticket.

MOLASSES

Sir,—Your tasty molasses story omits mention that, strange as it may seem, the British composer, Cyril Scott, definitely had a finger in the existing roly-poly. Some time ago I read with interest his missionary book on the virtues of blackstrap and how to use it. His enthusiasm for the sweet diet was contagious and had then reached across the world.

So just to whom the credit is due is perhaps a delicate point.

From "Martha"

"Once . . . upon a time"
Over and over again,
Martha would tell us her stories
In the hazel glen.

Here were those clear grey eyes
You watch, and the story seems
Told by their beautifulness
Tranquil as dreams.

She would sit with her two slim hands
Clapped round her banded knees;
While we on our elbows lolled,
And stared at ease.

Her voice, her narrow chin,
Her grave small lovely head,
Seemed half the meaning
Of the words she said.

Thinking Aloud

" . . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

WHILE shaving I discovered four new grey hairs on my head the other morn, strangely enough. I say strangely not because another strand or two of near-silver is any kind of phenomenon, but because the mirror is seldom so frank.

It's curious how a mirror conspires with your wishful thoughts to keep you young-looking. It's like the picture of Dorian Gray in reverse, you never see the ravages that other people see on your face. Not, at least, until it's too late to do much about it.

Why, though, should we want to? Old age is the "Front Line" of life, moving into "No-Man's Land," said Stephen Leacock. Victoria, then, is full of confident campaigners.

For its size I dare say this city—the quadruple municipality, I mean—is the most felicitous in Canada in which to retire if you are elderly or in which to reach that golden mean. It should be golden provided you don't have to exist on the meagre old-age pension that is by some miracle supposed to keep body and soul together these high-priced days.

How these gracious old folks can keep the stiff upper lip they do is beyond me.

They, at any rate, exhibit the kind of serenity that one likes to associate with the older decades of life. You generally find that to be the case, however. It is the exception who seems to resent the mounting span of years as though he were being hardly treated.

Old age is what most of us have to face some time. It's not so certain as death—or taxes, perhaps—but it's inevitable if you're spared that long, and, the statisticians tell us, the average lifespan is climbing.

True enough, as a friend remarked the other day, none of us have ever been old before, and so there's nothing to guide us as we cross the border from middle to old age. It's a moot point, incidentally, where this borderline is located. Thirty-five would be in the centre of the Biblical allotment of years. Yet if you're a politician and become a premier at fifty the world is amazed at your youth.

While if you're just rising forty and looking for a job the amusements in your when you're tabbed as being an old man.

It's this kind of paradox that drives home the truth of Samuel Butler's dictum that "this age will serve to make a very pretty farce for the next." But then, that teaches nothing, since generations have been decrying their forebears since the days of Methuselah, I suppose. And not without cause, since it is a case of tit for tat.

We're an illogical lot, the human family.

And nowhere more so if we refuse to heed the mirror when at last it decides to reflect the truth. One then should be the foolish notion that for you, by some particular alchemy, time has stood still. That's the one thing it does not do—ever.

Not until you reach the venerable years can you tell how you yourself will be affected. But for all I know the world through the eyes of old age may sparkle as crisply as ever it did.

I'm in no hurry to reach the "Front Line," however. Given the proper dispensation I suppose I'll reach it soon enough. Which is why I'm not quite certain about those four new grey hairs. Maybe the mirror was playing me a trick!

"In This Damn Place a Majority Can Veto Us!"

U.S. Gets Outside Aid

By STEFFAN ANDREWS

North American Newspaper Alliance

WASHINGTON.—The United States is finally cashing in on the Marshall Plan.

The Economic Co-operation Administration plans to tap European counterpart funds to the tune of $70,000,000 to set up overseas mining projects that will insure a continuous flow of strategic materials to the United States.

The strategic materials will include such key items as chrome, cobalt, zinc and lead, as well as a big supply of bauxite, essential for manufacturing aluminum.

Most of these projects will be set up in the British West Indies, French Morocco, the Belgian Congo and in parts of Greece and Germany.

The financing of these strategic materials transactions will require the E.C.A. to use few, if any, American dollars. For the first time the E.C.A., which has been lading out billions, will try to reverse the process.

Foreign currencies which have piled up in foreign banks of the countries participating in the Marshall Plan to match the dollar grants supplied by the U.S. will be tapped to finance the strategic mining projects.

Under the E.C.A. Act, 5 per cent of these "counterpart funds" have been funneled into a special fund credited to the United States for the purchase of strategic materials. The E.C.A. now proposes to use $17,700,000 of these funds to finance a bauxite development project in Jamaica; $9,500,000 for cobalt, lead and zinc production facilities in French Morocco, and the balance in several secret projects in other Marshall Plan countries.

From these various projects strategic materials are to pour into the United States at the rate of $2,000,000 worth a month—with little or no extra cost to the American taxpayer.

The E.C.A. points out that the Korean War has been a big drain on U.S. supplies of strategic materials and the new sources of supply are expected to replenish the government's stockpile.

In addition, the E.C.A. plans to make direct purchases of raw materials out of its backlog of foreign counterpart funds which should add another $65,000,000 worth of critical metals to the U.S. stockpile. By far the biggest single purchase in this program has been $27,600,000 worth of rubber obtained from British Malaya largely with counterpart funds set aside by the United Kingdom.

Currently the E.C.A. has negotiations pending for the purchase of about $8,000,000 worth of industrial diamonds, quinidine, tungsten, lead and coconut oil, all of it to be paid for in foreign currencies.

The Marshall Plan agency already has purchased with counterpart funds $3,000,000 worth of platinum—a critical material used in making nitroglycerine and in the production of aircraft, ships, guns and tanks.

Other counterpart fund purchases made as of last June 30, include: $7,100,000 worth of steel, $5,300,000 industrial diamonds, $4,500,000 bauxite, $3,300,000 palm oil, $2,300,000 graphite, $3,000,000 platinum, $800,000 sperm oil, $500,000 cryolite, and other materials, $7,900,000.

Most of these materials already have been delivered. About 68 per cent of the purchases were made from Great Britain. Malaya, Madagascar, Dutch Surinam and Jamaica supply many of the materials vital to American military needs.

Now They Should Know

(From The Evening Citizen, Ottawa)

FOURTEEN Doukhobor women journeying across the country without baggage or even traveling clothes is a diverting but scarcely inspiring spectacle. It may, however, serve a useful purpose.

Because only the people of British Columbia have been exposed to the antics of the radical Sons of Freedom sect, the problem which they constitute has been regarded with general indifference outside the province.

It was the British Columbia Government that appointed the Doukhobor research committee which recommended to the Department of Justice that 295 men and women be released from prison. With their release, it was hoped that a new policy on the part of the Doukhobor problem was in the process of development.

If the Federal Government is still unconvinced that prison sentences are not the real solution to this problem, the exhibitions that the Doukhobor women staged at every stop on their way to Kingston Penitentiary ought to persuade it.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

Autumn is the time for the annual reappearance of the nifty: "What do you say to a tramp in the woods?" and the nice girl's reply, "I never speak to them."

Very strange, this opposition of the Reds to the United Nations' 230-pound Secretary-General. We had always supposed Moscow to be addicted to the big lie.

After Korean water, a returned warrior says beer was a lifesaver. He takes exception to any type of preparedness which calls for keeping the powder and the G.I. dry.

The slates of Gerry Davis suggests the need for a new description—something less awkward than on-spiral.

In this, its centennial year, much is made of the fact that the bowler hat is easily damaged, though we can't recall ever having seen a B-Flat trumpet blow a hole through one.

TAXI FARE

You never know what your next trip may be when you drive a taxi. I answered a call one day and a lady came out of the house with three small children. The oldest looked about three and the youngest was about nine months. The lady put them in the cab and said, "Pull the meter, please. I'll be back in a few minutes."

So I sat there waiting, and the children howled and yelled. Fifteen minutes later their mother came back. "How much do I owe you?" she asked. I asked her if she wasn't going anywhere. "No," she said. "But I had a long-distance phone call to make and needed peace and quiet. Here's the fare and thanks for waiting."

CHICAGO went one better than the British Columbia Liquor Control Board, which decreed five and one-half ounces of beer for 10 cents. The windy city raised beer to 15 cents per glass. There are still many genuine Victorians who remember bars that advertised: "Biggest schooner in town, 5 cents."

In crossing a street when a traffic control signal shows green, a pedestrian is absolutely right, and sometimes dead right. The Victoria weather forecasts compounded at Vancouver are often as reliable as the total mileage reading on the speedometer of a second-hand automobile. When an election candidate stands for something, he always expects voters to fall for it. A man never sees the stock which brings his children, only the bill. Most of us will put off almost anything until tomorrow, except worrying. A man is never too tired to tell a friend how hard he has been working. Surgeons who specialize in setting bones get all the breaks. Many a tiresome person tries to be interesting instead of interested. "This is the time of year I really enjoy my garden. I do not have to cut the grass, trim edges or hoe weeds," Tobaccoist Martin told a customer. Apparently no Doukhobor women ever refuse to go visiting because they have nothing to wear. Some persons are bent from toil. Others are crooked from trying to avoid it. "What a neat desk you have," an acquaintance said when visiting a stenographer in a Fort Street building. "Nobody ever sees any unfinished work on my desk. I always hide it," the girl giggled. Most motorists will arrive safe and sound if they limit their speed instead of speeding their limit.

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

A MAN can skate faster than he can move by any other means than mechanical. The speed with which he can skate as compared with the speed he can run probably represents the degree of difference in the public attitude towards the game of hockey and the game of lacrosse. But lacrosse came very near to being our national Canadian and American game.

Hockey has got too big a lead on lacrosse for it ever to catch up. Hockey is almost a major industry now. But all across the Dominion there are hot-spots of lacrosse, little patches that, if taken in hand by some gifted sport horticulturalist, with a green thumb, might be nurtured into something much bigger than it is now.

In earlier days, lacrosse was always played in big open fields. The goal posts were simply set up at the approved distance from each other. The crowd of spectators were not even held back by ropes.

The goal referee stood back of the goal with a white handkerchief in hand. When one of the players came racing in for a shot, and made it, like lightning, the goal referee usually blinked; and often as not waved his white hankie in error. Whereupon the crowd surged into the field. It took hours to play a lacrosse game. Goal umpires had to be changed time after time. There were fights among the spectators. What we mean nowadays by spectator sports are those in which the spectators cannot share. Lacrosse was a spectator sport in the fullest sense of the words.

But they have lacrosse in a box now. They call it box lacrosse, and it is played in arenas. It lacks that glorious platinum ice setting of hockey, and the ballet-like quality of line and motion that makes hockey a treat even to those who only go because it is the thing to do.

But lacrosse is still a game filled with the drama that belongs to the greatest of sports. It has dazzling speed, far more individual grace in its players, and none of that armored beetle quality that gives to hockey a faint savor of the Roman arena.

Looking Back

Through Colonist Files

25 YEARS AGO—Cabinet ministers of all British Columbia Governments since 1896 have improperly held office, according to a recent discovery made by law officers of the Crown, and a bill has been introduced in the Legislature by Premier Oliver to validate Executive Councils during the last 27 years.

50 YEARS AGO—Chief Deasy explains that the statement that the book and ladder truck was mired in a ditch on Pembroke Street on Friday is incorrect. The vehicle, he says, was stuck in the heavy mud which lies in the centre of the roadway.

85 YEARS AGO—H.M. ships Sable, Clio and Sparrowhawk left Esquimalt yesterday afternoon to join the Forward at Comox. The appearance of the fleet at the settlement ought to be sufficient to strike awe into the minds of the disaffected residents.

Canadian Ships Revert To Routine Naval Work

A JAPANESE NAVAL BASE, Nov. 6 (CP)—Canadian destroyers, after engaging in bombardments and other actions, have reverted to more routine tasks with the United Nations forces in the Korean theatre.

Two of the three destroyers—Cayuga and Athabaskan—have returned to port after long periods at sea, with little excitement to report.

The third vessel, Sioux, is still at sea with Commonwealth units off the west coast of Korea.

The Canadian ships' most recent tour of duty consisted largely of patrols and routine screening of larger fleet units.

The Athabaskan worked with a bombardment group of 37 U.N. ships, largest naval force to operate on the east coast since the start of the Korean war.

AT LANDING

The Athabaskan was off Wonsan during the unopposed landing of 10th Corps elements October 25.

"There were landing ships as far as the eye could see," said Commissioner Officer David Hurl. "At 3 p.m. they approached in single file and entered the swept channel into the harbor. They went by us at intervals of four minutes, and it wasn't until 11 o'clock that night that the last one passed."

Commissioned Officer Robert Paul, gunnery officer on the Athabaskan, said the experience with the big fleet was "an excellent opportunity for us to obtain large-scale fleet training in various aspects of naval warfare. The experience was invaluable."

Though Athabaskan was 23 days at sea, her men did not go without mail from home.

Petty Officer Allan Pilon explained that a helicopter from a United States aircraft carrier delivered the mail by dropping several bags on the destroyer's forecastle.

COURIER SHIP

Occasionally, the Athabaskan acted as a courier ship for the fleet, and on October 21 she carried Vice-Admiral Dewey Struble, U.S. commander of the fleet, on an inspection trip into the inner harbor of Wonsan.

During her term with the fleet, Athabaskan also destroyed three floating mines, bringing her total up to 48, and the total for the Canadian group up to 17.

Cayuga and Sioux, meanwhile, were on the west coast with British and Australian units, mostly engaged in screening Royal Navy carriers near the 38th Parallel.

The Cayuga escorted a fleet of seven U.S. supply ships carrying food and clothing to Haeju for the U.N. land forces.

In War Area

Dave McIntosh, Canadian Press staff writer, has just flown to Japan with Canadian crew on Korean airlift. McIntosh, himself a combat veteran of the R.C.A.F., was at dockside in Yokohama when the transport arrived with the advance party of Canada's special brigade, whose departure from Seattle he had covered two weeks earlier. He will spend some weeks reporting from the Pacific war area.

Chinese Aid in Korea Seen as Clue to War

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By J. M. ROBERTS, Jr.
A.P. News Analyst

The world waited today for a clearer view of Communist China's intent in Korea, and for United Nations reaction, in the search for clues to the possibility of a new general war.

Speculation over the situation disclosed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's report of large-scale Chinese intervention took precedence over all other business at Lake Success as well as in the interested capitals. But U.N. wheels will not begin to turn until Wednesday, when the matter will be presented to the Security Council. Since no effective action is expected there in the face of the Russian veto power, the situation is then expected to go before the General Assembly.

POSSIBLE ACTION

Observers would not be surprised if the U.N.'s first action were to call for the Chinese to withdraw.

The possibility that Russia herself would proffer some sort of cease-fire proposal was not ignored. She might suggest stopping the war where it is now and negotiating a settlement. That would leave China in possession of the Yalu River hydro-electric development which was believed a major incentive for her intervention, and would leave the Reds a strip of Korean territory. Such a proposal was expected to receive little consideration among U.N. members already committed to clearing the Reds out of all Korea.

A suggestion reportedly considered in Washington, that China continue to participate in the hydro-electric operations after Korea is unified, was considered more agreeable, although there were doubts about Washington's alternative, which was to destroy the dams if the Chinese refused to end their intervention.

EARLY DOUBTS

There also were early doubts about the implied request, in Gen. MacArthur's report, for authority to bomb the air and land bases of the intervening forces in China and Manchuria. The appearance of Russian-made planes in the battle, however, was expected to bring this matter to a head quickly.

Gen. MacArthur, of course, already has authority to bomb the dams on the Korean side of the hydro development if that will help his assignment, which is to clear Korea.

So far, China's motives seem to be to occupy the hydro area and to prolong the war.

A new propaganda line issued from Peking, however, is calling on the Chinese people to support "volunteer" aid for North Korean forces. This may be the tipoff on the official attitude.

LONDON, Nov. 6 (AP)—An 18-minute funeral service without a clergyman and without a sermon was held today for George Bernard Shaw.

Ministry of Supply Urged

Canadian Businessmen Support Defence Plan

OTTAWA, Nov. 6 (CP)—Wholehearted support for the Government's military preparedness program, including industrial mobilization, was extended today by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and its more than 100,000 members.

The Chamber gave assurance of its support through a delegation which met Prime Minister St. Laurent and members of the Federal Cabinet to make the annual presentation of resolutions adopted at the Chamber's annual meeting.

Francis G. Winspear of Edmonton, newly-elected president of the Chamber, led the delegation.

The Chamber emphasized resolutions dealing with national defence and industrial mobilization. It recommended establishment of a ministry of supply responsible "for industrial mobilization, procurement and production in the present emergency."

The resolutions included one which urged the Government to strengthen the provisions of the Criminal Code relating to Communism and to deprive Communist-dominated unions of the privileges and protections of Canadian labor legislation.

The trained lion was more than willing to lick the hands of neighborhood children. The children declined.

Strike Vote on Thursday Could Tie Up Shipyards

Thursday has been set as the day when Victoria shipyard workers will take their strike vote, union officials indicated yesterday.

Between 300 and 400 men are expected to cast ballots. The result could shut down all work at Victoria Machinery Depot Co. Limited and Yarrow Limited.

On the Mainland, a sixth meeting to find a settlement between Burrard and Pacific Drydocks and about 400 striking employees was reported under way yesterday afternoon.

Although negotiations have reopened, there was no report of a settlement being reached. The Mainland workers have been on strike since October 18.

At a mass meeting in Victoria on Sunday shipyard workers in an unofficial vote conducted by the union showed they were in favor of backing up their wage demands with strike action. Result of the vote was not made public.

The dispute affects eight unions of the Victoria Joint Shipyard Council.

Religion, Education Slips As U.K. Gambling Soars

There is more gambling going on in Great Britain today than ever before, John T. G. Williamson of Chudleigh Bay said yesterday.

He recently made a trip to England and Scotland after 20 years' absence. Mr. Williamson was surprised at the way the people have changed.

"They are more like Americans now," he said. "You don't have to be introduced before speaking to a stranger."

ENJOY GAMBLING

He declared that at least 80 per cent of the people are gamblers in some form or other. Dog and horse races and football pools seem the favorite pastime.

He added that there appeared to be a "serious decline in religion." The attendance at church has dropped off seriously since the days when Mr. Williamson used to attend. "To me that is very serious," he declared.

Even the children are apparently not interested in education as they used to be. "All the school children are interested in getting through school as fast as they can, and getting a high-salaried job in a factory," he said.

Mr. Williamson added there was plenty to eat in the stores but a good deal was still rationed.

He said that people sending parcels to England should include tea, sugar, fats and canned fruit. "But not plums," he said. "There are plenty over there."

Ratepayers of Saanich to Decide On Road, Drainage Work, Financing

Saanich ratepayers will be asked to decide whether or not they want certain improvements to roads, drainage and sewers, and how they want them paid for, it was decided at a special council meeting last night.

Five referendums, introduced in the form of motions by Councillor Leslie H. Pasmore, were approved after considerable discussion from council members and Saanich residents who were present at the meeting.

A petition signed by 100 residents of the Braefoot and Bepkinsop areas was presented to the council by Mrs. Joan Miller, 4020 Braefoot Road.

The petition, in effect, requested that some action be taken to alleviate flood conditions brought about through "blocked drains and culverts."

MADE DIFFICULT

Reeve J. W. Casey explained that efforts to keep the mill rate down have made such improvement financially difficult.

A motion was then brought up by Mr. Pasmore asking that a referendum be put to the people asking: "Are you in favor of the local improvement plan for correction of drainage problems in the entire municipality?" and another: "Are you in favor of allocating two mills annually to progressive drainage schemes throughout the municipality?"

The two motions passed with two dissenting votes, but not before a good deal of heated discussion.

The two-mill allocation would bring about $28,000 a year for use in drainage improvement, Mr. Pasmore said.

MAJORITY OPPOSED

Councillor William Kersey said that the people who do not need drainage improvement were in the majority and thus the referendum would be in the negative.

"Saanich council should take the initiative itself," he said.

Several of the residents spoke against the referendum, including Mrs. Miller, who felt that municipalities as a whole should pay for improvements where needed.

One resident from the Swan Lake area hotly protested what he called "passing the buck."

Reeve Casey explained that increased costs and unexpected new expenses had used up appropriations.

Opposing the referendum, he said: "If it is defeated, it will be the council's hands in the future."

Most of the gathered citizens left after the referendum motion was passed.

"This hasn't helped one bit," said one of the petitioners.

Three referendum motions were then introduced by Mr. Pasmore concerning road and sewer improvements.

"They would, in effect, ask residents if they favored improvements to 'secondary' roads; allocation of five mills for reconstruction of these roads, and continuation of negotiations with Victoria on entering North West sewer."

Municipal Engineer H. D. Dawson reported on road expenditures during the year. Monies appropriated for improvement work and not entirely used could be transferred to balance over-spending in maintenance costs, he said.

Woman Faces Charge After Long Taxi Tour

A Montreal woman is facing false pretence charges in that city following a trip here by taxi last September.

Gilberte Gaudet, 44, pleaded innocent to obtaining transportation valued at $2,482 from taxi driver Yvon Ravary, 22, by false pretences after the completion of a round trip from Montreal to Victoria and San Francisco.

She was released on $950 bond pending preliminary hearing next Friday.

Miss Gaudet arrived here September 16 and told reporters that she had been dreaming of the trip since she was a child.

"IMPRESSION"

Ravary's lawyer claimed to Montreal that Miss Gaudet had given the driver the impression that she was a member of the Canadian Intelligence Service and had sought to cultivate this idea by always stopping at some Government building in the cities they visited.

Miss Gaudet's lawyer said she had the money to pay for the trip but had lost $1,500 somewhere in Western Canada.

Miss Gaudet had described herself as an heiress when she arrived in Victoria.

Hysterical Do-ers Seen as Result Of "Progressive" Mass Education

"Progressive" mass education has a tendency to turn out a "generation of hysterical do-ers," according to Dr. Dorothy Johnson, assistant professor of history at Reed College, Portland, Ore.

Speaking at a meeting of the Victoria Extension Association Monday night at Victoria College, Dr. Johnson identified herself with critics of a trend in modern education who deplore current methods of teaching teachers.

"United States teachers are the hardest-working, hardest-driven, frustrated group in the country, but they seem unaware of the necessity for liberally-educated men, or how to turn them out," she said.

HOW, NOT WHAT

"They know how to teach, but not what. A test made at Columbia University's School of Teachers showed that most of them knew less about mathematics at the end of a four-year course than when they entered. The bulk of their education was devoted to methodology," Dr. Johnson said.

She said critics of new education methods don't like the rejection of much of the best in the old, liberal system.

"We don't want to go backward, but we do want to use all the good features of both old and new," she said.

Monday's lecture was attended by more than 150 members.

Chairman was Robert T. Wallace, association president, who announced that speaker for the next lecture, November 27, will be Dr. H. V. Warren, professor, department of geology, University of British Columbia. Dr. Warren's topic will be "Power, Population and Politics."

Pup Replaced, Boy Happy

Dog's Life or Sheep's, Farmer Explains Action

Garry Wagner has emerged from the blackest week-end of his four-year life, and "all's right with the world."

The Island Highway boy's pet collie, "Rowdy," was shot by a farmer last week, but The Colonist's account of the tragedy brought Garry a coal-black Border Collie pup with white markings.

Monday morning, Garry and the "ball of fuzz," which he named "Snooky," got to know each other, and it was love at first sight.

Not only is the child's broken heart on the mend, but the generosity of Victorians, who phoned and called at the Wagner home, brought the family, here only a year, into the community fold.

OTHER GIFTS

"One woman, who had no pup to offer, sent a jar of jelly and a box of apples, and another is sending Garry a Teddy bear," said Mrs. Wagner.

She said life in Victoria had been "rather lonely," and confessed she had been ill a great deal since coming here.

"But that's all over. I never knew there were so many wonderful people. I feel now that I'm a member of the community," she said.

There are two sides to every story, and the farmer who shot "Rowdy" has his.

WORRYING EWE

He told The Colonist that Garry's dog was worrying a cornered ewe which was in lamb.

"I was faced with the necessity of making a quick choice. It was either the sheep or the dog, in my opinion, so I regretfully shot the dog. The child was not in sight of the shooting, but came up at the sound of the shot," he said.

The collie, if not a killer, was definitely a public nuisance, and neighbors had complained to the S.P.C.A., the farmer said.

The incident, however, is now closed, and "Snooky" will do his very best to make it fade from Garry's memory.

Twin Sister Attendant For Gertrude Campbell

Maive and white chrysanthemums decorated St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Saturday evening for the marriage of Gertrude Elizabeth, twin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Campbell, 2815 Heath Drive, to George Edwin Wilson, second son of Mr. A. D. Wilson, 3316 Cook Street, and the late Mrs. Wilson. Reverend J. L. W. McLean performed the ceremony and Mr. C. C. Warren presided at the organ. Mrs. W. E. Ireland sang "Because" while the register was being signed.

The pretty bride, given away by her father, was attired in a bolero of French lace with lily-point sleeves and high neckline buttoned down the back with tiny velvet buttons, over a formal strapless gown of white ring velvet fashioned with fitted bodice and very full skirt slightly in train. Her elbow-length veil of illusion net was arranged under a cap of French lace trimmed with velvet and the traditional orange blossoms. A cascade bouquet of Onchitis roses and stephanotis completed the bride's attire.

Mrs. Thomas H. Wilson, matron of honor for her twin sister, was gown in yellow corded taffeta with full skirt and worn with matching gloves. Her bandeau of feathered-carnations matched the blooms in her Colonial bouquet. Little Miss Janet Wilson, niece of the groom as flower girl, wore soft pink corded taffeta with floral bandeau and miniature Colonial bouquet. The bridegroom had his brothers supporting him, Mr. Thomas H. Wilson was best man, and Mr. Albert Wilson, ushered with Mr. William Campbell, brother of the bride.

Gem-Decked Crowd at Met Opening

By INEZ ROBB

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (AP)—The old Metropolitan Opera staged its 66th annual opening under new management tonight, but with the same old extravaganza and social light-rope walkers in their accustomed places.

As always, it was a dazzling spectacle, best viewed through smoked glasses. Despite time, tide and taxes, the diamonds were not only more plentiful tonight, but bigger and better.

And the common, ordinary white ermine of yesterday was replaced tonight with veritable Niagaras of White mink, undoubtedly worn in honor of the new general manager, Rudolf Bing.

Or, as Variety, the Bible of show business, succinctly put it: Met Flings Wing-Ding for Bing in Centre Ring.

Some 3,800 persons—200 had to stand—contributed an all-time opening night high of $109,000 for the privilege of looking and listening, mostly at and to each other.

BOTH SIDES

If the opening night proved conclusively that diamonds are indeed a girl's best friend, it also proved something else: It proved that there can be excitement on the other side of the footlights at an opera opening.

I am not certain that for once the opening night opera, Verdi's "Don Carlo," last heard at the Met in 1923, did not outshine its auditors, diamond and silk for sale.

This opera, for the first time in the Met's history, was staged by the best of Broadway talent.

Margaret Webster, the distinguished Shakespearean producer, director and actress, staged the opera with sombre verve and distinction and Rolf Gerard, another Broadway expert, designed lofty and grandiose sets for "Don Carlo," set in sixteenth century Spain at the time of Philip II.

American debuts were made by two Italians, basso Cesare Siepi as the 16th-century Spanish king,

DOROTHY KIRSTEN

Philip II, and mezzo Fedora Barrienti as the Princess of Eboli, and by Della Rigal, soprano from Argentina, as Elizabeth of Valois, wife of Philip and beloved by her stepson, Don Carlo. The Met debut was by Lucine Amara, as a briefly-heard off-stage celestial voice.

FOR EAR AND EYE

Not only was there a feast for the ear, but the eye gazed upon shifting scenes compounded of the canvases of Goya and Velasquez.

Among those who came to see and hear the first opera produced under the new Bing management were Mary Garden, the prima donna of prima donnas; Warren Austin, head-man of the American U.N. delegation, and Mrs. Austin; Myron C. Taylor, former American envoy to the Vatican, and Mrs. Taylor; Clare Boothe Luce; Payne Emerson, in an awesome amount of strapless bodice; Mrs. Frank (Betty) Henderson, Mrs. George Washington Kavanaugh and every Metropolitan diva who could raise a diamond necklace for the occasion.

The first night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bing were Sir Oliver Frank, the British Ambassador to the United States, and Mrs. Frank, and American diplomat Hugh Gibson. Bing himself is a Vietnamese who won fame as director of the Edinburgh Festival before coming to the Met to replace Canada's Edward Johnson, retired, who reigned at the Met for many years as a leading tenor before becoming its general manager.

NOTHING UNTOWARD

Rivers of champagne flowed in the Sherry Lounge of the Met between acts but at a reasonably late hour, no untoward acts had disturbed the dignity of the occasion. No lady had smoked a whacking black cheroot, as in the past. No gent had stood on his head in the lobby, as in the past.

Tonight, the girls seemed perfectly content to fight their way into the jam-packed lounge and compare diamonds and costumes. Because tonight's feminine audience did not wear clothes or even dresses. They wore costumes, mainly in the Scarlet O'Hara tradition. And the greatest competition was not between the ladies of the 400, who

THE FROG

Yes, there was Uncle Wiggily's cousin, Jumper Hare, sitting on the grass near the rabbit hole out of which came Uncle Wiggily, Buster, Bunty and Chief, the police dog.

"What are you doing, Cousin Jumper?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"And what happened to you?"

"I am doing something funny," answered Cousin Jumper, the visiting adventure rabbit from Green Tree Valley. "I am watching a frog."

"I don't see anything very funny in just watching a frog," barked Chief.

"Oh, but this is a very funny frog," said Cousin Jumper. "I will tell you about him."

"First, if you please," said Uncle Wiggily, "tell us what happened to you, Cousin Jumper. We saw where you had jumped down into a rabbit hole. I suppose you did that to look for an adventure."

"Yes, I did that," answered Cousin Jumper. "But after I had hopped down into the hole a little way, I saw there were no adventures in it, so I hopped back up again and came here to sit on the grass."

"And all the while," said Buster, "we were looking for you down in the rabbit hole tunnel, Mr. Hare."

"I am sorry about that," said Cousin Jumper. "But if I had no adventures in the rabbit hole, I surely found one as soon as I came out."

"What adventure did you find?" asked Bunty. She looked at the clam shell, which still held some of the shrinking water. "Please tell us what adventure you found, Mr. Jumper Hare!"

"I found this adventure frog in the grass," said Mr. Hare.

"I see nothing like an adventure in that frog," spoke Uncle Wiggily. "To me he looks just like any other frog."

"Yes, just like Bully and Bawly No Tail, the frogs I play with," said Buster.

"Oh, but this is a very special frog," said Cousin Jumper. "You should see what he can do. It is very strange and remarkable. Oh, my! How funny you look, Cousin Wiggily! And you too, Buster and Bunty and Chief. Why are you so small?"

"It's because of the shrinking water," said Bunty. "It made us all shrink and grow little so we could crawl through a teeny hole in the tunnel. Do you want to be made into a little baby rabbit, Mr. Hare?"

"Thank you, Bunty, no I do not," answered Cousin Jumper.

"Then I may as well throw away the rest of this shrinking water," said the orphan rabbit. She sprinkled what was left of the queer water on a big toadstool. "In a second the toadstool became as small as a thimble."

"The shrinking water is very strange," said Uncle Wiggily. "But I wish, Bunty, that you could find some water to make us become our regular sizes again. I don't want to go hopping around looking like a baby rabbit. Do you know, Cousin Jumper, where we can find some water that will make us all grow larger?"

"No, Cousin Wiggily, I do not," answered Mr. Hare. "But I must tell you about my wonderful frog. I am sorry, but I know nothing about growing-bigger water."

"I do," suddenly croaked Cousin Jumper's frog. "Follow me, Uncle Wiggily, and I will take you to some growing-bigger water."

Then Cousin Jumper's frog did a very funny thing. It told you about it tomorrow. If the picture book doesn't get late for school when

It just didn't see the LIGHT

"I'm a radio actor and I'm supposed to watch the red light in the studio to cue me onto the air. One day I was so busy yawning I didn't see the light for nearly half a minute. That could have been the end of that job, but I learned in time why I was so droopy, slow, tired, and sluggish. Bad digestion and constipation were slowing me down."

"That's when the programme director put me on to Kruschen Salts. Told me what a pinch of Kruschen in a morning cup of tea, coffee or fruit juice can do for a guy. He wasn't kidding. It made a new man of me in no time flat. I'm billed for the lead in the next programme."

Will 66 gauge nylons wear longer?

Smooth on a pair of Harvey-Woods new 66 gauge nylons. They'll look and feel like exactly what they are—the very finest gauge nylons you can buy. But will they last?

Most runs come from snags—stitches catching on rough surfaces. This is less likely to happen with Harvey-Woods gossamer sheer 66 gauge nylons because the stitches are so very finely and closely knitted. The higher the gauge, you see, the finer the stitch. Higher gauge means greater elasticity, too, in the places where you need it.

Harvey-Woods new 66 gauge nylons come in three measured lengths. Heels are extra high and tailored, which with dark, line-fine seams will give you hair's-breadth look. In autumn hues by Harvey-Woods —$2.50 at better shops.

Your nylons will last longer if you soften your hands with lotion then roll each stocking on from the toe. Beware of hot cigarette ashes. They cause runs.

CHATEAU SIZZLERS

This recipe makes a bun feel mighty proud! Just wait till you taste the cheddar-flavored "sizz" that Chateau gives!

4 bread buns
1/2 cup deviled ham or
1/2 cup finely chopped
ham
1/2 cup chopped onion
Dash of thyme or parsley

1 1/2 tbsp. butter
1/2 lb. pkg. Borden's
Chateau cut into 16
slices
4 tbsp. catsup

Spread ham on toasted bun halves. Cook onion in butter until soft. Add thyme or parsley. Mix well. Spread over ham. Top each bun with 3 slices of Borden's lip-smacking Chateau and catsup. Broil at low heat until cheese melts and is flecked with brown. (Chateau Cheese melts as smoothly as it spreads and slices.) Serve piping hot to your friends or family. It's a fine party-or-main dish.

Meal-and-munch brighteners—

The distinctive flavor of each of Borden's Fine Cheeses (mellow result of cheese-making for half a century) makes it traditional for cheese-lovers to say, "Borden's Cheese, if you please!"

"If it's BORDEN'S, it's GOT TO BE GOOD!"

Borden's quick-to-serve, anytime favorites—Borden's Cream Cheese, mayonnaise-style Cheddar, Old Cheddar, and 6 slice Borden's Cheese Spreads in glasses.

Canadians Tour Incheon

By L.S. JAMES BRAHAN
ON BOARD H.M.C.S. CAYUGA—
On Thanksgiving Day, 1950, H.M.C.S. Cayuga was swinging at anchor in the harbor of Incheon. A cold wind sent rain clouds scudding across the sky. It was a bleak unfriendly day for Thanksgiving—far from what the Cayugans would expect this day to be like in Canada.

There was a danger of enemy air attack and only 30 of the crew were allowed ashore.

An American landing craft landed the sightseers near the business section of the city. Among the men who went ashore were Petty Officer Lawrence Dempster of Calgary and AB, Fred Hughes of Winnipeg.

The Canadians were taken through the shell-ripped streets to visit Kimpo airfield and see their first Russian-built fighters. One of the guards remarked to AB, Rupert Brodeur of Donnelly, Sask. "Take one home as a souvenir if you want—we're going to burn them tomorrow."

Brodeur didn't think he could manage a whole plane, but was content with a few empty cartridge cases.

The group next visited the hill where what was left of the British Consulate stood, scene of some of the fiercest fighting in the Incheon landings.

They inspected eight Russian-built tanks that had been knocked out by United States Marines, with the terrible marksmanship. The projectile makes only a small hole in the armor of the tank, but burns the interior beyond recognition.

Chief Petty Officer Hugh Dunbar of Victoria brought back a range strip from a 75-mm. field gun.

AB, Neil Cave of Saskatoon, claimed a North Korean steel helmet as a souvenir.

L.S. James Armit of Lethbridge, Alta., claimed he "saw a woman with a basket of peaches on her head. I bet it weighed nearly 100 pounds."

Herring Packers Can't Keep Up As Fishermen Take Rich Harvest

MARINE AND TRAVEL NEWS

By RAY WORMALD

A rich harvest is being taken by British Columbia herring fishermen off the lower east coast of Vancouver Island.

So great are the catches that one company has called in its fleet to allow shore plants to catch up with loads already delivered.

Although only a few days old, the season has already netted more than 16,000 tons of the small silvery fish. Quota for the area, as last year, has been set at 40,000 tons. Several weeks were required last year to fill that quota.

At least 35 setnetters and almost twice as many packers are engaged in the fishing. They have been ordered to slow down the catch to allow reduction plants to clear their bins.

Top boats in the herring fleet are bringing in 500 tons of herring at one "set."

MEAL, OIL

Practically all of the herring are being used for the production of fish meal and oil.

The price being paid for the herring is $7.40 per ton, plus a company contribution of ten cents a ton toward a fisherman's welfare fund.

Gordon Barrie, local Federal Fisheries representative, reported recently that the herring fishery is open June 1, but was slow to start this year due to negotiations being conducted between the fishermen's union and operators.

Steel, Labor Woes Loom

Dark clouds labeled "steel shortage" and "labor trouble" are hovering over Victoria's two large shipyards.

The acute shortage of steel has already affected work at the two yards—Yarrows Ltd. and Victoria Machinery Depot Co. Ltd. And there is no immediate prospect of the picture getting brighter for some time.

Greatest steel delivered so far has been received by the V.M.D. firm, which has lost a large pipeline contract for the city of Edmonton as a result of the steel shortage.

NAVAL WORK

Both shipyards are all set to launch their naval shipbuilding program, but it is expected steel requirements for these vessels will be met through priority distribution.

The V.M.D. plant has orders for a gate vessel and two minesweepers, while Yarrows Ltd. is to build a minesweeper.

Both yards, and particularly V.M.D. handle a considerable amount of commercial steel structural work. This phase of operations will be severely affected as a result of the steel shortage.

Experts Tour City Yards

A party of shipbuilding experts of the United States and several senior engineers of the Royal Canadian Navy yesterday commenced an inspection of local shipyard facilities.

They spent most of yesterday at the Yarrows, Ltd. plant, and there conferred with H. A. Wallace, managing director, general manager E. W. Isard, and other officials of the plant. Late in the afternoon the party visited Government House.

Today they are slated to tour Bay Street and Outer Wharf facilities of Victoria Machinery Depot Co. Ltd.

Among the party are: Capt. J. E. Hamilton, United States Navy; Cmdr. R. E. W. Harrison, U.S.N.R.; H. P. Elov, of the Bureau of Ships, Washington, D.C.; Rear Admiral (E) J. G. Knowlton, chief of naval technical services, Ottawa; and Capt. (E) B. R. Spencer, superintendent of the naval dockyard at Esquimalt.

The visiting group will leave Victoria this afternoon for the East Coast.

NO CHRISTMAS TRIP

It is unlikely the lighthouse supply vessel C.O.S. Estevan will make a special Christmas delivery trip to lonely and isolated lighthouses of Vancouver Island's rugged West Coast this year, according to Thomas Morrison, local Transport Department agent.

Last year, while making such a trip, the ship faced many days of danger in terrific storms on the West Coast, Mr. Morrison explained. It was a risky business for the ship and the men with her. This year, Christmas parcels most likely will have to reach the light stations by normal methods of postal delivery.

Yesterday the Estevan left this port on another routine trip along the East Coast of the Island. She will proceed as far north as Queen Charlotte Sound, calling at all lighthouses en route.

LINER GETS REFIT

Reconditioning of the 20,000-ton Cunard Line's Samaria is currently under way, and she is expected to return to service—refurbished and refitted from stem to stern—next June. The ship will operate between the United Kingdom and Canada.

Preliminary work is being done at Merseyside, and in December the big liner will steam to the Clyde to be fully reconditioned by John Brown and Company.

Last of the Cunard fleet to be reconditioned, the Samaria is the eighth Cunarder to be restored to luxury passenger service since the end of the war. Completion of her reconditioning will bring the total thus far transformed by Cunard since 1945 to more than 300,000 tons.

The Samaria carried 179,000 passengers and steamed 250,000 miles in war service. She was released from Government requisition in 1945 and after a limited refit began carrying displaced persons to Canada. In this service, she and the Seythia brought nearly 27,000 persons to the Dominion before those sailings ended last March.

SHIPS RETURNING

The first naval vessels to return to the United States from the Korean war will arrive at Long Beach, Calif., Wednesday.

Navy officials, in announcing the event, identified the ships as the heavy cruisers U.S.S. Helena and U.S.S. Toledo.

Both cruisers left Long Beach, their home port, last July 6, and 19 days later they were reported in Korean dispatches to have destroyed 200 loaded boxcars in a bombardment of Korean coastal regions held by Red troops.

The two heavy cruisers and the light cruiser U.S.S. Worcester arrived in Pearl Harbor four days ago for refueling and supplies. The Worcester, also in action in Korea, is proceeding through the Panama Canal to an East Coast port.

FISHERIES CHANGE

A general reorganization and streamlining of the field services of the Federal Department of Fisheries in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island was announced in Ottawa last night by Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew.

The new system, which went into effect this week-end, brings into operation three specialized divisions responsible for protection, inspection and administration.

It replaces the unit system under which 16 unit offices were responsible for both protection and inspection within their particular units.

WHAT THE FILTER TIP DOES

- It stops particles of tobacco getting into the throat.

- It guards physical fitness.
- It brings out the flavour and makes the smoke delightfully sweet and cool.

When subtle craftsmanship has given the very choicest Virginia tobacco an even finer fragrance, the skilled blenders who make du Maurier cigarettes are still not satisfied. Commissioners Accept Resignation Of Constable Wounded by Gunman Resignation of Constable Stanley Cornish from the city police department, was accepted yesterday by the Police Commission. He had been a member of the force for nearly ten years and was seriously wounded in July, 1946, by a young gunman. Since his recovery he has been in charge of the violations bureau of the department.

In a letter to the Commission, Constable Cornish stated he found himself unable to use his private car for police duty on week-ends as he had been called on to do. He said he felt that his injuries would prevent him from doing special work.

Constable Cornish filed application for pension.

Police Chief Blackstock told the Commission that the constable had never been called out on special duty since he was notified last month that he might be. He said that if he had used his own car he would have received time off for extra duty.

Mayor Percy George, chairman of the Commission, stated he was prepared to accept the resignation on the basis of a personal interview he had with Constable Cornish. He said he believed the constable wished to leave the force. The mayor said he knew of no person on city pension for injuries received on the job.

The Commission referred the pension application to Chief Blackstock, instructing him to consult with the city solicitor and comptroller-treasurer.

It was pointed out that under normal circumstances the constable would still have to put in 19 years on the force to become eligible for pension. His injuries, however, may have some bearing on the final decision.

PASSING REPORT

The Police Commission yesterday tabled a recommendation made by Sergeant Brooke Douglas, head of the traffic department, that efforts be made to legalize right of left passing in traffic where streets have been divided into two or more marked lanes.

It was understood that the question would be reopened by the Commission following study.

Sergeant Douglas pointed out that under the present Highway Act one vehicle may pass another only on the left of the one being overtaken. He said he would like to introduce a bill to legalize right of left passing in traffic where streets have been divided into two or more marked lanes.

Sergeant Douglas stated that right passing is now practiced in some instances in Victoria despite the fact that it is technically against the law.

He suggested that if the Commission concurred in his recommendations they be submitted to the Attorney-General for action.

FINES TOTAL $4,651

Fines totaling $4,651 resulted from 883 convictions obtained by the city police department against various offenders during the month of September, as was disclosed yesterday in a report made by Deputy Police Chief Harry Mercer.

The report was submitted to a meeting of the Police Commission. Value of stolen property reported during the month was $3,017.25. Value of stolen property recovered during the month was $449.96.

The report placed a value of $1,428.48 on property reported lost during the month and a value of $459.98 on property recovered during the month.

CITY MANAGER ASKS TIME TO PROVE NEW SYSTEM HAS EXPECTED VIRTUES

City Manager Cecil C. Wyatt yesterday asked that before a judgment be given on council-manager government "a sufficient period of time be allowed to elapse, so that the developments, whatever they may be, will have at least a fair trial."

"I ask this for two reasons," the city manager explained to a luncheon meeting of the City Club. "First, the City Council, municipal manager form of government in Victoria is being watched very closely by many other municipal governments, and therefore our judgment, whether it be favorable or otherwise, should be made too hastily."

"The second reason, which is a personal one, is that I will need this time to properly demonstrate that the management of municipal affairs that has been introduced by the City of Victoria, has virtues," declared Mr. Wyatt.

FIRST ADDRESS

It was Mr. Wyatt's first public address in Victoria. His talk provoked some interesting questions at its conclusion.

Gyro Louis Glazian asked if the manager would need the approval of council to introduce a "drastic change" at City Hall.

"Is he on his own or does he have to play politics?" asked Mr. Glazian. The city manager replied that he had never "played politics" and did not intend to begin doing so now. He added, however, that in the future he might make recommendations for policy changes.

"I would present to council, my recommendation and the reason for it," stated Mr. Wyatt. "It would then be up to Council. I am not a policy-maker."

HINGES ON COUNCIL

Mr. Glazian expressed the opinion that the success of the new form of civic government might hinge on how the manager's recommendations were received by Council. He said he believed Council members were trained and experienced in their own particular fields and not necessarily in the field of municipal government as was the manager.

Alderman Waldo Skillings, Gyro Club member, asked if police commissions in Ontario were composed of elected representatives.

The Royal Canadian Navy's "active" fleet of Pacific Command now consists of one ship—the cruiser Ontario.

This was brought about yesterday morning with the departure of the destroyer Crescent for Halifax, where she will serve as a training ship and general escort to the carrier Magnificent.

The 365-foot Crescent, commanded by Lieut.-Cmdr. G. H. Hayes, carries a crew of approximately 150 officers and men—most of them with homes on the East Coast.

As the warship left her Esquimalt jetty, the navy band from H.M.C.S. Naden struck up "I'll Be Seeing You." Men of the ship cheered to express gratitude for warm hospitality shown them while in this city, and because most of them were heading home again.

The ship is scheduled to reach Halifax about December 10.

NO DESTROYERS

Meanwhile, the Esquimalt naval base will be without any "active" destroyer strength for some time. The destroyers Sioux, Athabaskan and Cayuga are still in the Korean

Medical Men Try to Save Lives of Two Tiny Babies

MEDICAL men at Royal Jubilee Hospital are fighting to save the lives of two premature babies whose total weight at birth was only four pounds, five ounces.

One tiny girl, who weighed two pounds two ounces at birth and soon slipped back to one pound, 13 ounces, is now three weeks old.

The second, who weighed two pounds, three ounces, is only three days old.

Both are being given oxygen and specially prepared foods.

CITY MANAGER ASKS TIME TO PROVE NEW SYSTEM HAS EXPECTED VIRTUES

City Manager Cecil C. Wyatt yesterday asked that before a judgment be given on council-manager government "a sufficient period of time be allowed to elapse, so that the developments, whatever they may be, will have at least a fair trial."

"I ask this for two reasons," the city manager explained to a luncheon meeting of the City Club. "First, the City Council, municipal manager form of government in Victoria is being watched very closely by many other municipal governments, and therefore our judgment, whether it be favorable or otherwise, should be made too hastily."

"The second reason, which is a personal one, is that I will need this time to properly demonstrate that the management of municipal affairs that has been introduced by the City of Victoria, has virtues," declared Mr. Wyatt.

FIRST ADDRESS

It was Mr. Wyatt's first public address in Victoria. His talk provoked some interesting questions at its conclusion.

Gyro Louis Glazian asked if the manager would need the approval of council to introduce a "drastic change" at City Hall.

"Is he on his own or does he have to play politics?" asked Mr. Glazian. The city manager replied that he had never "played politics" and did not intend to begin doing so now. He added, however, that in the future he might make recommendations for policy changes.

"I would present to council, my recommendation and the reason for it," stated Mr. Wyatt. "It would then be up to Council. I am not a policy-maker."

HINGES ON COUNCIL

Mr. Glazian expressed the opinion that the success of the new form of civic government might hinge on how the manager's recommendations were received by Council. He said he believed Council members were trained and experienced in their own particular fields and not necessarily in the field of municipal government as was the manager.

Alderman Waldo Skillings, Gyro Club member, asked if police commissions in Ontario were composed of elected representatives.

The Royal Canadian Navy's "active" fleet of Pacific Command now consists of one ship—the cruiser Ontario.

This was brought about yesterday morning with the departure of the destroyer Crescent for Halifax, where she will serve as a training ship and general escort to the carrier Magnificent.

The 365-foot Crescent, commanded by Lieut.-Cmdr. G. H. Hayes, carries a crew of approximately 150 officers and men—most of them with homes on the East Coast.

As the warship left her Esquimalt jetty, the navy band from H.M.C.S. Naden struck up "I'll Be Seeing You." Men of the ship cheered to express gratitude for warm hospitality shown them while in this city, and because most of them were heading home again.

The ship is scheduled to reach Halifax about December 10.

NO DESTROYERS

Meanwhile, the Esquimalt naval base will be without any "active" destroyer strength for some time. The destroyers Sioux, Athabaskan and Cayuga are still in the Korean

War Games Completed By Reserves

"Exercise Stopper" held last weekend in the area between Elk Lake and Saanichton was a "marked success," according to Reserve Army officers who took part in the scheme.

The exercise was under the direction of Brig. C. A. Richardson, commander of the 22nd Armored Brigade, and Brig. D. Clarke of the 13th Infantry Brigade.

Lieut.-Col. W. J. Moesdale, commanding officer of the Canadian Scottish Regiment, said more than 90 officers representing nearly every unit in British Columbia attended the scheme.

BRIDGE GAP

It was conceived that what was needed to bridge the gap between the policy-forming and administrative activities of government could be provided by creating the office of chief administrator," stated Mr. Wyatt.

He said a chief administrator was viewed as a guarantee that officials responsible for performing civic services would do their work more efficiently.

"Generally speaking, the ideal chief administrator for a city is the man who is a jack-of-all-trades but master of two," advised the city manager. "First, the art of management and secondly, but of equal importance, he must be well versed in the broad problems of city government."

"The chief administrator's management responsibility then, is to take a group of human beings and to mold them into a smoothly-functioning administrative organization, capable of accomplishing efficiently the aims which are set for it," asserted Mr. Wyatt.

He said it was important that a manager should know how to plan, to organize, to direct and act as chief representative of his organization.

School Zone Congestion Assailed by City Driver

M. P. Paine, 3620 Quadra Street, in a letter to the Police Commission yesterday, suggested that traffic be speeded up on Quadra Street despite numerous 15-mile-an-hour school zones.

He said that from where he lived on Quadra Street to Pandora Avenue there were five school areas and one playground area.

"I find this an extremely slow journey and hazardous also if I forget myself for a moment on this route and it occurs to me also that it is a very important highway," he stated.

Mr. Paine said it appeared traffic could be speeded up rather than slowed down.

NOTICED CROSSING

"In my travels in the United States and also in Vancouver I have noticed the use of 'school crossings' which are well-defined and cannot be overlooked, instead of the 15 miles per hour rule," declared Mr. Paine. "At these crossings the motorist must stop when the crossing is occupied and from my enquiries they seem to work very successfully."

He asked that his suggestion be considered as a possible solution to "what I am sure will develop increasingly as a traffic problem on Quadra Street and elsewhere."

Commission members stated that they did not make the laws, they only enforced laws drafted by City Council.

Mayor Percy George, commission chairman, indicated that the public works department already had the suggestion under consideration.

Out of 7,000,000 population Sweden has almost 900,000 enrolled in civil defence organizations.

Army Gets Nod Over Ohio As Grid Leader

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (P.)— Army moved out of Ohio State in a photo finish today to capture the No. 1 spot in the Associated Press weekly poll of 100 college football coaches. Southern Methodist, leader the last two weeks, tumbled to seventh place with only two first among 314 votes. Army got 2,451 points to Ohio State's 2,402.

Points in this country-wide poll of football writers and sports broadcasters are figured on the basis of ten for first, nine for second and so on down to one for 10th place.

Oklahoma was third with 2,389 points, Kentucky edged into fourth place with 2,320 points on its 40-6 rout of Florida.

Texas, which knocked S.M.U. out of the perfect record class, moved into fifth position with 11 firsts and 1,911 points.

Others in the first ten in order were California, Southern Methodist, Princeton, Miami and Illinois.

Win Hill Trophy
